Commentary and Guidance for Enlightened
Change During Rapidly Changing Times

These essays are presented for their value to anyone who cares about the future as humanity prepares to make the greatest shift in consciousness and being ever experienced. We cover a wide range of topics including social-values research, “future-views”, the world situation, and advanced spiritual perspectives.

“GLOBAL AWAKENING means individuals and communities becoming aware of and embracing their true nature – one of interconnectedness, service, and spirituality, as we express extraordinary dimensions of our larger being. It is remembering who we truly are as we seek ways of developing global processes and structures specifically designed to assist the fullest expression of social and spiritual awakening.”

State of the Vision and Our Situation

By Alex Kochkin

Introduction

This issue of Global Awakening News was to have included more articles on current political and spiritual transformational developments. However, the current situation compels us to focus again on the transition of humanity – from the perspective of awakened, conscious community. We will be addressing more of what is going on in the next issue due to be published early December and in short updates as necessary. What is presented here is with the intent to inform and help guide. Many hours are spent reviewing and considering the content of this publication and it is offered freely and with no expectation of monetary consideration.

The State of the Vision commentary is a mixture of intuitive insight tempered with the insight of experience and the further discussion of “future-views” of what is likely to be coming around the corner. With this issue, Global Awakening News continues to focus on awakened community – a new development as humanity prepares to engage with a great transformational process of being.

There remains in play a transformational process (see October issue of Global Awakening News) designed to clear and up-shift the energy matrices that govern individual and collective existence. However distortions in the human personality and collective consciousness, combined with heavy interferences from those vested in maintaining their grip over humanity, has placed limits to this process. Hence a “plan-b” to move the process along. This “plan-b” involves the ratcheting-up of changes to the planetary environment – changes that will cause many to deeply question what is truly most important to them and to wonder if there is more to existence than mere ordinary physical-social life.

As noted in the section following this introduction, there are basically two tendencies within humanity engaged in a push-pull with one another, with a great deal of amplification occurring due to various influences outside of the immediate human sphere of awareness.

In response to deteriorating material conditions, many will be seeking ways to form practical, materially-focused communities that embrace shared values. Some will focus primarily on evolving their spiritual consciousness while attending to certain practicalities of day-to-day life. Some will involve rural land situations and others will be within urbanized areas. It will be those who embrace spiritual awakening that will be at the forefront of the transformational waves. “Community” also can represent much larger groupings of people, such as villages, cities, counties, states, provinces, etc. This is not about an organized social movement, it is a spontaneous and self-organizing process that is already underway and offers much that is beneficial.

Social-economic and earth environment changes are clearly underway and that are beyond the ability of humanity to apply old approaches to address the consequences. Before the end of this year, it will be plain to many people all over the world that there will be no return to what has passed as “normalcy” and that a new way of functioning is demanded by new conditions. This new way of functioning will only be successful if a new consciousness is applied in its development.

Our content stretches what is considered “safe conversation” in some circles. But if humanity is to “make the grade” and evolve as spiritual beings, we have to “make the stretch” and reach beyond what is comfortable to access the wisdom of higher consciousness. For those of you who have asked, I wish to state again that I never been, and am not now, connected to any religious doctrine, teacher, or guru. I also am not a “channeller” or “medium” but rather rely on a more direct sense of patterns and movement among humanity and the higher realms. That said, I am sharing with you timely and closely concordant information presented in the article “Transcend and Transform Your World”. We noted the close parallels between what had been prepared for the State of Vision section and what Tom is presenting.

Major changes are upon us now and will intensify in impact and accelerate in terms of number of such events. For each of us to be prepared is more than a matter of food and water and sanitation. For everyone will be faced with a basic choice: separation and fear or connection and love. It will be cooperation and mutual care and connection to our higher selves that will “win the day.” Those who seek to use force to take from others will eventually “rue the day”. Wonderful surprises are in store for those who are aware.

State of the Vision and Current Situation

Since May of this year we have been closely tracking the near-future timelines relative to social, economic, and planetary changes that go beyond our entire solar system. While it is not the place of these pages to make exact predictions, what was anticipated has been closely born out by recent events. Imagine a high-level survey of a large sampling of tens of thousands of individuals –like a giant “focus group”. Imagine people were to be offered the opportunity to transcend 3-d reality and move into a higher dimensional existence. All manner of assistance and reassurance would be offered. All manner of reminders provided as to how dire things would be in the ordinary 3-d world. The result now would be very roughly 40/60 to 60/40 division between those who were willing to move on in their spiritual evolution and those who preferred to “tough it out” as 3-d humans “no matter what”.

We are now living in the initial stages of the material break down of the old paradigm and the control matrix. We are also living in a period of increasing freedom to connect directly with our highest nature as spiritual beings. With this, comes a responsibility for each of us to consider our own future and how we greet the transformational energies and processes that are at work. Will we be focused on holding on to failing old patterns and systems, like gripping the handrail of the Titanic, or will we be focused on creating a new way of being that is directly connected with our highest destiny? (And perhaps someone will come along and help loosen the handrail for those.)

As pointed out previously in this column, “humanity has been presented with many opportunities and warnings as to the impending urgency to voluntarily change and to create new ways of being for itself before circumstances are forced upon us.”

What is before us in the coming few years is the unprecedented breakdown of the old order and ways of conducting human affairs, simultaneous with the up-shifting of the energy fields that govern our existence here.

There seems to be a wide spectrum of responses by individuals to the changes they are aware of and anticipate. However, what may appear as a very complex situation can be readily analyzed into two aspects. These are distinguished from one another by whether or not one believes humanity's future is dependent upon a primary and fundamental requirement of spiritual awakening and conscious connection to our higher nature and source as spiritual beings.

Those in the latter group tend hold on to some “innate right” for humanity to continue on in some manner. This perspective encourages “voluntarism” in which anything is possible if only enough mental and physical power is applied. It is essentially a flawed belief system, laden with the problems of separation of personality-focused consciousness from the consciousness of the all of creation. It naturally projects the separation and primacy of the individual to that of entire nations and the entirety of the human species. To those heavily influenced by this paradigm, information and knowledge is preeminent and well-intended schemes to “fix” things right are endlessly spun out: with themes like: if only there was a new energy technology, if only the U.S. had better leadership, if only there was no more power of capital over our lives, if only...

In contrast, the former perspective emphasizes awakened conscious community as a way to facilitate humanity's evolutionary transition into a higher level of awareness and existence. All of our technological and material advantages are for naught if ones perspective of life and existence is based upon the belief of the universe being a cold and lonely place in which random events assemble and evolve on their own into self-aware life.

It is important that while humanity is very much split over this, that it is possible for individuals and networks to shift between these two paradigms. For example, those who are spiritually oriented can become overly invested in righteous causes and slip into polarity consciousness and voluntarism; those more materially oriented can come to spiritual realizations and shift. These are basic dynamics involved in the battle for humanity.

To those who are more aware, there is absolutely no question as to the dramatic nature and pace of the spiritual and energetic changes that are now underway. What cannot be known is how we navigate this period or how rough or smooth the process will be. Will we persist in trying to “fix” what cannot be “fixed” of a degenerating existence and hang on to physical existence at any cost? Or will we find ways to adjust in our daily lives and begin to move with the new energies and trust in our place in the greater process of creation. What truly constitutes “sustainability” and “viability” for our own persons and for humanity as a species?

Breakdown in the Planetary Environment –Catalyzing Further Shifts in Consciousness

As this is being written, hundreds of thousands evacuated the coastal regions of Bay of Bengal/Bangladesh to avoid the heavy wind, rain, and enormous storm surge waves from a major typhoon, the biggest in over a century; an estimated 15,000 killed and so many more injured, with millions of people devastated. A major earthquake has just struck a region of Chile causing loss of life and leaving thousands homeless. Extensive fires burned large areas in Southern California recently damaging thousands of residences. People affected by the US Gulf Coast in recent years still have not recovered their lives as they were prior. Coastal and inland flooding continues in many areas. The severe droughts in Australia and Southeastern U.S. and other areas continue to be especially severe. These are but a few examples of increasing frequency and accumulating impact on humans of changes to their planetary environment. For some, these traumatic experiences became an opportunity to create a new way of being.

Previously we wrote that “we are headed into rocky and stormy waters beginning early September and it does not look like it will get any easier as the weeks roll on.” This was specifically in reference to a confluence of growing economic crises with changes in our physical environment. One good example of this is the dramatic increase in food costs throughout the world as well as growing shortages. This is a combination of crop losses coupled with financial crises. This is not being reported in the mainstream media.

There remains a significant window in 2007 between the last week of November and the last week of December for major earthquakes that could perhaps impact North America, and possibly the Northwest region. We are also entering a period in which unusual extra-planetary energies will be seen and that will have noticeable effects on people. Regardless of the location of anticipated events, we are tracking some very large-scale events expected to affect coastal areas globally especially sometime around October 2008. In the August-September issue we outlined several large-scale events that are anticipated over the coming year to year and a half.

The step-wise shifts will, without doubt, impact enormous numbers of people, many of whom are already suffering in their material conditions. It will also cause those who have rested on relative material “advantages” to re-think their priorities as they find their lives adversely affected. In all cases the overarching question will be to evaluate purpose and meaning of existence. As many turn to spiritual insight and growth, there will be those who will insist upon “survival” of what they are familiar with from their recent past. This represents one clear illustration of different realities.

Breakdown of the Control Matrix –the End of “Civilization”

Recently published dire economic forecasts anticipate severe global economic crash by the end of 2009. It is our assessment that this is more likely to occur before the end of 2008. It is only natural for people to maintain connection with what is or has been most familiar, even if it causes further suffering. As the national and global economic, social, and political processes breakdown, more people will have an opportunity to see the terrible lies and villainy behind the public faces of their most influential public figures and institutions. To some this will cause righteous anger and desire for retribution, to others it will be cause to abandon any further identification with or expectations of life under the control matrix; (and yes, there will continue to be a small group represents “social inertial ballast” who in effect support the dominant old paradigm). As more people see more of the reality behind the public façade, millions of people will open to new possibilities and higher consciousness.

This is why the interest and importance of choosing to create new forms of community relationships is important now as a transition step to a radically more evolved existence that relies upon our basic nature as spiritual beings rather than as intelligent yet self-centered bipeds.

The battle for human consciousness and human existence is now clearly on earth and in the human sphere. It is evident everywhere. Various individuals and organizations are showing up this year that use the “right sounding” catch phrases to keep people within the boundaries of the matrix. Most of the public figures associated with social-progressive and spirituality are not in any position to offer anything that represents an evolutionary step forward to humanity, despite their years of writing and talking about such possibilities. For reasons too complex to explain in this brief section, there are presently no viable alternatives for social organization and economy at a global level. It is of the utmost importance for people to focus now, where they live and work, on forming new community with one another. One that transcends any and all established organizational and belief systems. As of this writing, we have identified three basic guiding principles: trust, caring, and service that are within a fourth and greater context of connection to all of creation. Thus local community can be of mutual assistance of one another and whenever possible form networking relationships with other similarly aligned communities. This represents the most useful transitional form for humanity as people become more acquainted with the transformational processes that are unfolding.

New Community

There is ever greater an urgent need to develop new and transitional forms in society specifically to allow more people to step out off the insane struggle of “modern life” long enough to focus on creating a new world that eventually can involve everyone. We are calling these awakened conscious community, others may refer to these differently such as self-organizing community, etc. Whether the context is an existing geographic community or the formation of a new land-based intentional community, many people will naturally focus on the materiality of community – housing, food, utility infrastructure, etc. While this is very important and provides a basis for common practice that serves a larger community of people, the most important qualities that will help guide and inform any community will be the level of awakened spirituality that can be brought to bear daily.

In keeping with the new creation patterns that are in evidence, we implore people to evaluate what is most important in their lives and act upon it before circumstances become truly overwhelming. Those who can let go of what is not trustworthy and connect with others based on trust, will find themselves at least one step ahead. Those who can do this in cooperation with others, will find themselves yards ahead. Those who can do this in service to a greater good and with care for their environment will be miles ahead. Those who can so function in this manner and in connection to higher consciousness and the greater process of creation, will be light years ahead.

Humanity never lost its potential to grow and evolve beyond its current state of being, but millennia of separation from higher consciousness has been a serious impediment to our development as spiritual beings who, as whole in their ordinary personal awareness, lack connection to higher spiritual consciousness. It is time for this to change, now. Central to humanity’s healing and evolutionary progress is everyone’s divine right to be connected to higher (spiritual) consciousness, to access levels of awareness and insight beyond the current limitation of human existence. Everyone.

New Public Online Forum – New Earth & New Community

Thanks to the efforts of one dedicated individual, there will be a free public discussion forum that includes major themes such as “Changes in Planetary and Space Environment”, “Awakened Conscious Community”, “Spirituality and Transformation”, “Dreams and Visions and Future Viewing”, “General Discussion“, and an articles section for contributing authors. Those people interested in networking with others about forming new community, please email us at info@pfcn.net with only your name, city/state/province/country location. We will be organizing these by geographic area and facilitating initial contact through a special emailing.

Awakened Community and a New Earth

By Alex Kochkin

Near-future events will cause many to seek and form new relationships and community. Why wait for circumstances to impose themselves? Why not begin to choose differently now?

About this Guide: “The What and the How”

This guide describes basic principles for awakened conscious community and simple ways that can be readily incorporated into weekly and daily activities and that do not require elaborate organizing efforts with meetings.

In discussing the process of forming community with various people, there has been the question of “finding enough time” as well as whatever localized “issues” there may be in a given area. Of course, there really is no barrier caused by a “lack” of time. It is all about awareness and intention as we go about our daily lives. From this we can attend to community, starting by simple acts in daily life. The result is a new type of community. When enough people are consciously so engaged, there naturally will be interest to gather and create the time needed. Concerning issues, there will always be “issues”. Issues are never primary, although may at times catalyze people into coming together in a new way.

Wherever and however it starts, it is absolutely essential for people to address building awakened community in the geographic area they live. As you reach out and seek to address specific needs in your area, this all takes commitment and time.

Awakened Conscious Community and A New Earth

This is about new ways of being with one another and with oneself as well as our “host” planet. This is about people creating and discovering new relationships between and within themselves. Those who choose this now will become islands of inspiration and light for countless numbers of people. This is all about a direct person to person community, and not virtual Internet-based substitutions –although the principles apply regardless of type of situation.

The principles described here are universal to individuals, communities, organizations, entire national societies and bridge levels of social strata.

As we pay attention in our daily lives to principles of trust, caring, service, and a greater spiritual context for our existence, we cultivate a new basis for being --for humanity and for our own self. In our actions in this regard, we all become, in effect, “leaders”. As we become more aware and find more nurturing ways to exist, naturally there will be others who will be “infected” in a good way. As more people find cause to turn away from what no longer works in society, they will be looking for something that serves a meaningful future. ...And there you will be for them.

This is about creating something, not about opposing anything. What fails to nurture us in our humanity and in our nature as spiritual beings, will gradually become less an influence in our lives and a new freedom of many forms of personal energy will be available where before it seemed limited.

Basic Concepts to Use Now

Connection, Service, Spirituality -- A simple set of principles that makes commonsense –and that is solidly based on present-day core values. It reveals a story of insight into ways to bridge differences: for some people connection is primary - connection to others, humanity, nature, earth, cosmos, Creation, God, etc - for others service is primary - service to others, humanity, nature, earth, cosmos, Creation, God, etc. and for others, spirituality is primary – awareness and connection to higher consciousness – regardless of whether they are religious or not. For some it is important to relate through some combination of these, and certain people it is important for all three to be in combination. To support personal, social, and political positive change, a major social science research project (IOOW-2000) demonstrates that these values bridge roughly 84% of the adult population in the U.S.

In creating awakened conscious community, Trust, Caring, and Service can be used as guiding principles. These are within a greater context of spiritual awakening. These four principles are fundamental building blocks of Creation –ones that are clear of the dark influences that have so plagued humanity. You are invited to use these spiritually-derived principles in daily life and in finding conscious community.

How?

It is simple: first think about the people around you –home, neighborhood, school, workplace, stores, and people with whom you choose to associate. All it requires is to pay attention and begin looking at your relationship with others. Not in a harshly judgmental manner of “good or bad”, but in a manner of simple honesty.

These factors cannot be taken in isolation from one another. It is not enough to simply trust that your neighbor can be counted on to help you fix your car and you in turn can fix their plumbing. Circumstances today demand more than mere material aid out of mutual self-interest. So let’s look more closely at some guiding principles...

Trust

Consider the meaning of “trust”. It is essential to the durability of any positive relationship. There are many levels to this. At the simplest is an exchange – a monetary or voluntary agreement – between people to do something in a certain way within a certain time. Who is “trustable” at this level? It is here that basic issues arise in society. A common one concerns monetary relationships. Someone is paid to do something for another that they appear to be qualified for. Yet today, too many people who accept money for goods and services do not want to be accountable for the outcome of their work.

Consider those who you are in relationship with daily outside your home. Who is “trustable”? Is there mutual trust to be open and honest with another --even when there is disagreement? Can openness and honesty be exchanged that respects personal integrity? Or is the relationship merely on agreement of ideas and when there is disagreement, there is a lack of trust? Is there a larger context in which differences can exist but not be antagonistic? This is all about a deeper and more meaningful form of respectful relationships.

Where is there trust between people to aid one another when dealing with difficult personal and private matters? Who can you turn to? Do they respond honestly and truthfully? Or do they always “take your side” or speak in platitudes? One example of a stronger level of trust is when people are sharing some of the most profound personal challenges in their lives. Without trust, such intimacy can be potentially threatening. So this is yet another level up the trust scale.

Please bear in mind, this is not intended to foster avoidance or judgment others, it is mostly a matter of developing community by finding ways that trust can bridge differences and diversity. So in your daily life as you carry on with your activities, be discerning as to the qualities of trust in your relations with others. Without trust, there can be no durable relationship or community. At times there can be “broken trust” and this needs to be addresses directly and honestly whenever possible and as your true heart directs.

To help connect and reinforce trust at any level, find ways to acknowledge this to one another. It is done through a simple expression of words of appreciation or gratitude to another for living and being the quality of “trust”. For those meeting to develop community in a more organized way, cultivating higher qualities of trust will be one of many factors to attend to.

Caring

It is easy to say to someone in parting, to “take care”. Consider all the ways we do not “take care” in our lives: What we eat, how we act with others, how we treat our natural environment, how we treat our personal home environment, how we treat our partners, children, elderly, etc. Multiplied by more than six billion people, the situation can seem hopeless. Public agencies fail to take care of social and environmental concerns they are charged with. Private agencies (especially business) too often fail to take care of ethical obligations.

“Taking care”, means paying attention and then attending to what matters. What matters to you that is truly essential to your existence as a spiritual being that is having a human experience? As you take care in this manner, you begin noticing more what you may have not noticed and reflected on before. Your life becomes more real, more meaningful, and less frenetic and excessively busy with “busy-ness”.

Except in rural communities and close neighborhood enclaves in cities, people are so separated from one another and their activities, there is always the expectation for someone else to “take care” of everything not in their immediate domain. In modern most of the world virtually no one has any personal motivation to truly “take care” to do they work honestly and thoughtfully with regard to the end outcomes. As a result the entirety of society fails to “take care”. When things go wrong, it is expected that there is some outside entity paid to “take care” and fix things right enough. As human social-economy continues to break down, these private and public entities will fail more, and then what?

So, why live like this when it is possible to help one another to take care of where you live, work, trade? It is both possible and necessary to reclaim and take charge of our own lives and develop networks of awakened conscious communities.

To help connect and reinforce caring at any level, find ways to acknowledge to one another with simple appreciation or gratitude for living the quality of truly “taking care”. This is in itself a form of caring and paying attention that builds further trust.

For those meeting together to develop new community where they live, consideration to the higher qualities of caring will be as important as the basic acts of service that you will likely be undertaking.

Service

Do you live and work in a way that primarily serves self-interest (perhaps under an illusion of “survival”) --or in a way that is about a larger goodness and serves others, the planet, and greater creation?

When you do something for someone, is there expectation by either party of reciprocity? If you offer someone lunch or a ride home or some other manner of help, is it given with any expectation of something, anything, in return? Is the gesture of care accepted --or rejected due to a fear of being unable to “return the favor”? Rather, this is about generosity of ones very being and faith in relationships that are based upon trust and caring, and thus reciprocity never enters your consideration.

Engaging in a form of service helps to connect people to something greater than their own selves and personal concerns. Groups of people engaging in tangible service to others, their community, nature, etc. provides a common context for diversity to be bridged and for new forms of trust and care to be created. For those of you who are meeting to develop new community where you live, consider ways mutual practice around important material concerns can be used to connect people of diverse perspectives and beliefs.

A common ground of trust and care is vital to the existence of humanity. Serving the greater good by ones actions from the simplest acts and considerations to more involved acts of serving others and the planet, also serves our higher nature as spiritual beings.

The Larger Context

At first, it may be tempting to think it would be a great achievement for more of humanity to just live the principles of trust, care, and service. At one level that may be true. But there is much more.

Surrounding and permeating these three principles that represent our “ground, air and water”, there is a fourth and greater bond/connection: Faith in our own connection and relationship in a “process of Creation” –a process that is about elevating form and consciousness to new levels of awareness and existence. This is at the center of our very nature of being.

A bond of trust in this process of creation provides a basis for self-integrity, no matter what. It provides supreme faith of the integrity of our origins as spiritual beings and in so doing further connects us all to our higher destinies. Awakened spirituality offers the greatest over-arching context for new community and a new earth –a context that offers each individual direct connection to higher consciousness. As energies based upon our fundamental goodness and nature as beings of spirit are shared, they actually multiply in their beneficial force and help increase our spiritual capacity further.

Awakened Conscious Community

As you connect in this manner, you will be forming a new fabric, a new warp and weft, one that is visible and accessible to all. Awakened conscious communities of people will be like “islands” that stand above the overall level of humanity. The presence of these “islands” will be easier for more people to shift to a new way of being. This is a vital part of a transition process that makes a greater transformation ever more possible. As the capacity for this process grows, the higher the overall vibrational state of your being. The stronger and higher the vibrational state, the greater your capacity for transformation. There is of course always the benefit of mutual material and spiritual support.

As you help develop a group in this manner, it will be important to examine the concerns of material life such as economy and livelihood, energy, natural environment, food production and distribution, neighbors connecting to and helping one another, culture, housing, governance, spirituality, and more.

There is no teaching, methodology, or gurus here, and certainly no fee to be paid! It is between you and your higher nature –and in your connection with others at the highest commonality possible in any given situation.

Through common practice, whether in meetings or in service with others in the general community, new spiritual energy is freed up and can flow. This in turn raises the spiritual energy available to more people over a larger area.

Conclusion

We have offered here some basic guidelines and principles to building awakened conscious community. Consider this a call to form new patterns of connecting with one another (like new molecular bonds) based on trust, caring, service to the greater good, and a faith in the process of Creation –all serving to uplift us to higher consciousness.

Whether the “old world” falls apart quickly or slowly, what will be the values and beliefs and practices of those who choose to live in a new way? What will be their highest vision?

There is a powerful commonality that embraces demonstrated core values shared by many people of diverse persuasions. These values include: universal connection to humanity, nature, Earth, the Cosmos, to higher consciousness; qualities of tolerance and reconciliation that permits difference to coexist without conflict; a sense of service to other people and to Earth; and spiritual values that are nearly universal. More than 80 % of US adults agreed that whether we recognize it or not, we all just want to connect to God or higher consciousness. Let us give expression to this in our daily lives.

From Moments to Episodes

From your own moments of reflection on all this you begin to build personal capacity. As you reach out through acknowledging goodness in others and in actions that serve a greater good, there begins to build a shared energy. Eventually it becomes important to take care, to attend to, and to actually create time for shared moments to flow into episodes, that in turn continue to flow.

Appendix - New Community

Contact and Networking

If you are interested in forming awakened conscious community where you live or work and wish to be in touch with others who are so interested, please email us your name, email, and geographic location and we will assemble these into geographic proximity and contact people directly to facilitate direct contact by e-mail. A new discussion forum is in preparation and will include a section devoted to developing awakened conscious community.

E-mail: info@pfcn.net

We are hoping to have a public discussion forum board open soon to facilitate the sharing of ideas and networking among those focused on the transformation and awakening of humanity and the earth. To be alerted when this is ready, please send us an email to let us know of your interest.

Check-up Points

The urgency is greater than ever for spiritually-aligned initiatives to connect people while facilitating awakened local community.

- Are you cooperating or forming a new trust network to benefit self/group of selves, for sake of self, for sake of group, for sake of community, or for a greater good and higher purpose?
- Are you moved by the possibility of broadening or expanding your awareness of your innate spirituality?
- Are you connecting with others based on the highest level of mutual resonance or are you seeking a lower commonality simply to involve greater numbers of people?

Some further practical points in developing new organization:

- Promote shared values of spirituality and community among humanity and with Earth
- Place this in a human spiritual evolutionary context
- Expand and grow network of individuals based on these principles
- Expand and grow network of communities based on these principles
- Elevate common high core values to bridge together many
- Address practical needs at local level
- Young people as participants with an equal say
- Foster local community in a context of spiritual awakening

Where there are negative issues that cannot be disengaged from, forgiveness and reconciliation can play an important role in bridging to situations. The process of forgiveness, and reconciliation can allow organizations, societies and individuals to, in effect, "come clean" and acknowledge what needs to be acknowledged without blame and retribution. Reconciliation can take place where there is enough mutual recognition and desire to move ahead, comparable to putting society and its organizations and institutions on an accelerated "twelve-step program" –and surrender our small personal will to a greater power and our higher spiritual selves. As humanity begins to awaken, can humanity forgive itself and come into full realization?

Forming awakened new community offers the possibility of diverse practical and social expressions of our greater consciousness in ways that have not yet been widely experienced. It is our belief that such an initiative can be embraced and supported by one and all, with a special emphasis on the equal participation of young people. This initiative unites the religious and the non-religious in a higher consciousness of the heart and spiritual self.

Connection, Service, and Spirituality: Core values that connect a majority of people

Consistent with the four principles of new community described in this issue, statistical analysis of the IOOW-2000 research discovered similar principles.

"Connection" - represents a range of values and beliefs from the personal connection to one another, connection with creation and nature, and connection with the cosmos and higher consciousness.

"Service" – represents a range of values and beliefs from helping one another, making a difference in the world, and nations helping nations.

"Spirituality" – represents a range of values and beliefs from the traditional to the new, a sense of the sacred in all life, and connection to higher consciousness or God.

In the diagram shown above, the beige shaded area outside the three connected circles includes roughly 16% of the population that fell outside the basic elements of connection, service, and spirituality –and who exhibit the strongest disconnect from self or society. The other 84% readily identified with any one or combination of these basic elements. (See June GA News Issue for more on this.)

A Self-Evident Spirituality

These points are taken from the IOOW-2000 research as examples of a self-evident underlying spirituality that is independent of nearly all religious or non-religious orientations.

Universal Connection

- Belief that “What goes around comes around” (and thus do no harm) helps provide a basis for people to recognize another facet of our mutual “interconnectedness.”
- Our earth is a unique kind of living organism, and as a whole system is fundamentally alive.
- Underneath it all, we’re all connected as one.

Tolerance and Reconciliation

- Interacting with others broadens our horizons.
- To have a successful community, we do not all have to agree.
- Tolerance of lifestyles and groups is essential in a society composed of such diversity.
- Forgiveness and reconciliation help us all accomplish much more.
- We are all looking to be loved and accepted as human beings.

Service

- To be more personally involved in creating a better world. Helping those in need is one of the most important things nations can do within the global community.

Spirituality

- We need to be more conscious of and connected to all aspects of our own selves.
- Whether we recognize it or not, we all want to connect to God or a higher spiritual consciousness.
- Importance of and need for spiritual growth.
- Social and spiritual awakening can make the world a better place in which to live.
- Experience a sense of sacred in everything or see everything as spiritually connected

To one and all, let us consider these social value points as a basis for a powerful underlying commonality of our selves as facets of a greater creation.

Transcend and Transform Your World

A Hathor Planetary Message: Through Tom Kenyon November 14, 2007

[It is very rare that I quote or refer anyone to channeled material. I have known of Tom's work since 1990. His most recent message appeared this morning in my e-mail and has very close resonance with me. It is therefore presented in this issue of Global Awakening News without delay. -Alex]

“We wish to speak with you about a perilous passage in which you now find yourselves. This shall extend throughout the rest of this year, as well as into and through 2008.

Much of what we have said in our past communications has come true and even more Earth changes, climatic alterations, geopolitical destabilization and threats to the ecosystem will unfold in the years to come. (Note: For those of you who are interested in these predictions, you can read the Archives by going to <http://tomkenyon.com/who-are-the-hathors/>.)

One of the probabilities that we spoke to in earlier communications was a downturn of the US economy. We said this two years ago and indicated that November of 2007 would be the most likely last window where this would take place and, indeed, it is unfolding as we had seen it. We wish to say to you, however, that the situation is far worse than is currently realized, so you would do well to prepare yourselves for difficult financial times.

But that is not the perilous passage of which we speak. We are, rather, speaking to your emotional life, the life of your heart and your spirit, for it is unquestionable that the unfolding events of the next few years will emotionally strike those who have sensitive hearts and who dream of a better world.

In our last communication we indicated that the continuation of humanity (in some form) was now guaranteed. This (the survival of human life on Earth) was not the case prior to the summer of 2007, but through the efforts of many beings the scales have shifted. This does not mean, unfortunately, that you can escape the spiritual purification of your planet, nor the difficult challenges that shall face your institutions, your cultural presuppositions and your economies. All of these have been built on shifting sand and the winds of the future are now upon you.

We would divide our comments into two areas: transcendence and transformation. When the chaotic phase of re-creation begins -- which is the phase you now find yourselves in -- all structures come into question. Destinies that have been calculated based upon expected outcomes dissolve. It is a time of immense confusion and the primal emotions of fear and hostility arise. There are several forces at work in this and we wish to discuss them.

Part of this chaotic phase is the simple result of the shift from one dimension of consciousness to another. As Earth and humanity move from 4th dimensional consciousness to 5th dimensional consciousness -- which is outside the constraints of time and space as you collectively perceive them -- there is a tension between the old world and the new world. You are right in the midst of this.

As more and more people experience paradigm shifts driven by sudden leaps in spiritual understanding, the old world is undermined. The new world with its new cultural, political and economic presuppositions has not yet blossomed, so you are in a kind of no-person's land where the old views no longer work, but the new views have not yet come into usable expression. So this is one reason for the difficulties you are experiencing in this dimensional shift.

But there is another more insidious element at play here as well. There are vested interests that wish the old world of domination and control to continue, and they are using every means at their disposal to insure it.

The type of control we speak of is so pervasive and so much a part of the fabric of your society that it is often overlooked – which is exactly what those who wish to control you work toward. There is no one person or group of persons responsible for this type of control. It comes from many directions and sources. It comes from sources you might never suspect including religious, political and economic institutions. But the attempts to control you do not end here. Many of the manipulative elements in your world are also coming from interdimensional and intergalactic interference.

But regardless of their source, the days, so to speak, for those who are trying to control your destiny for their own selfish ends are numbered. The shift from 4th dimensional consciousness to 5th dimensional consciousness cannot be stopped any more than the dawn of a new day can be avoided. The evolution of consciousness on your Earth and of Earth, herself, is in the midst of a dynamic shift and you are a vital part of it.

However, we wish you to understand that the transition from your current 4th dimensional reality to the 5th dimension (and higher) is not going to be an easy one. Due to the inherent chaos that occurs during a dimensional shift and due to interference with your world from terrestrial powers, as well as from interdimensional and intergalactic intelligences, the transition will be much more difficult. This is not to say that you cannot lessen the negative events in your future by actions you undertake. But it does mean that a graceful collective transition to higher dimensions is probably unlikely.

We have always avoided sharing information that is alarmist in nature, but we also need to be direct and honest in our assessment.

As we have indicated, the rest of this year and through 2008 will mark both an intensification of the dimensional shift and an increase of planetary manipulation and control. This parallel event -- the shifting upward into the preludes of 5th dimensional reality (the foyer of higher planetary consciousness to use a metaphor) and worldwide attempts to control and contain the human spirit will be paired off in a virtual and real tug of war. Indeed this war for the human spirit has already begun.

There is not much that one single person can do to mitigate humanity's collective destiny. But by stepping out of the collective mind control and manipulation that is hypnotizing the world at large, you have the possibility of affecting your own destiny in distinct ways.

In order for you to do this, you must find a way to transcend your own limitations, and by this we mean the limitations of your thinking, which have been imposed by your institutions, your governments, and your religions. You must find ways to transcend the messages of fear and terror projected into human consciousness by the events that are unfolding before you and by the manipulators of these events who are unseen. If you are to survive this period, you must transcend what is happening, or seeming to happen, around you. You must find your own spiritual center.

There are no magic ways to do this. Each of you has several pathways that will lead you to the still-point of your own consciousness, to the realization of your own divinity; and from that place you can more easily detach yourself from the events that unfold around you. You will have learned to transcend the world. One of your great spiritual teachers once said, "Be in the world, but not of the world." This is very good advice in the coming times which are now upon you.

But it is not enough to simply detach your self and transcend the world. You must also transform the world, and we speak not here of the greater world, for that is beyond your ability to affect. We mean the world right around you, your local community of friends, loved ones, and the earth that is actually beneath your feet. This is the world that we speak of, and this is the world you must transform even as the greater world seems to deteriorate and fall apart all around you. This shall take a great degree of spiritual mastery. We are not saying that it is or will be easy, but we are saying it is absolutely imperative that you transcend and transform your world, both together -- simultaneously -- in order to pass through the eye of the needle.

And so when you find yourself disheartened at the state of the world, our advice to you is to transcend this self-indulgence, to transcend the manipulation and sense of isolation that is being projected upon you, to transcend the group mind form. This is tricky business because you must find your own path into the joy of your heart, even in the midst of suffering that may be around you. There will be times in the coming years when spiritually sensitive individuals will feel the desire to give up. This is the time to re-inspire yourself, and how you do this is up to you, but we do have a few suggestions.

Turn your attention away from yourself and your own problems to the world around you, to the earth underneath your feet, to your local community, to your friends, to the strangers who live around you, to your loved ones. Discover what you can do to make that world in which you live a better place. These things are very simple actually. It could be a smile, a comforting word, offering a space for a car making a turn in front of you; it could be offering food to someone who is hungry; it can be turning off your television mind control device, and playing with your children or your pets. It could be planting a tree. The list of opportunities to affect the world that is right around you is endless, and then you will find yourself re-connecting to your local community, even as the forces that would manipulate the world try to destroy it.

Do understand that there is power in simplicity, which is why our messages usually deal with simple basics. As always, we suggest you cultivate the Holon of Balance as a highly effective way to deal with energetic instabilities as they arise. (For a detailed information on how to create the Holon of Balance, go to: <http://tomkenyon.com/the-holon-of-balance>)

We also encourage you to live consciously in appreciation or gratitude, for the subtle harmonics created by these emotional states will act as protectors for you, and lift you up even if the world takes a downward spiral.

Seize the moments of your life, even if your culture and your economies go through difficult times. Find the space within your self to detach and transcend what appears to be happening around you. Then you will, perhaps, have a most interesting experience. You will see the cosmic joke, and the entire affair on your planet will appear to you as both an interesting and amusing transition into higher consciousness.

This sense of amusement is, however, only seen, of course, from the vantage point of 5th dimensional consciousness and higher. It is not always easy to see the innate humor of situations as they arise in a dualistic universe - especially when you are locked into it. This is why we encourage you to transcend your world -- the world as you believe it to be -- and to enter into a higher octave of awareness. A new universe brimming with possibilities awaits you.”

A Journey Home

by Rasha

Allow the magical medium of breath to carry you now ...and lift you up into the Eternity of the ethers, wherein you truly dwell.

This being who is oriented toward the material forms of perception is not at all the definitive expression of who and what you Are.

The sacred Essence that glows at the heart of your Eternal Being is the transcendent expression of the one you have come to think of as “you.”

It is this expression of the universal Self that shares in this moment of Oneness.

Oneness has emerged from within the depths of each of you now.

*Now, in this very moment.
A moment that is, to outward appearances, not unlike all the others.
Moments that melt together into a blur, amid the whirlwind of activity
you think of as “your life.”*

*Now, it is time to stop all that.
Time to step back from the frenzy of purposeful “doing”... and simply Be.*

“Now” is a moment etched in the embrace of timelessness.

*A breath of Eternity, made manifest...
simply by allowing yourself*

to be fully Present in this fleeting instant of Union... and allowing yourself the experience of Grace.

*Let us be Still Now.
Let us hold this inner silence
as we would a Beloved.
It is a sacredness that is shared.*

Where the pulse of two Loves beat together... and emerge as One.

*One Love.
One Lover.
Expressed in the intimacy of this Now moment.*

*A breath becomes a caress.
And reveals a knowingness that transcends the need for words.
You feel it.
And you simply know...
without knowing how you know...
that Divinity is at work here.*

*We have come to this moment
to share in the revelation of that indescribable knowingness.*

*We have come to this moment
of re-Union
to taste, yet again,
a moment our hearts have memorized.*

*We know this embrace.
We have been lost
in the arms of this Love before.
So many times
it defies the imagination.*

*And yet,
each time we surrender
to the inevitability of this embrace, it's as though it were the first time.*

And the miracle of Divine Love

*pulses through form,
like a song without end...
and sweeps us
into the rapture of Oneness once more.*

Take a moment now and simply breathe it in.

Breathe the Eternal Life which you Are deep into the sacred core of your Being.

*Breathe.
Let the images melt away from your mind.*

*Let the thoughts,
which might seek to define this moment, surrender ...and be Still.*

This indescribable feeling... is all that exists.

*This
is all that remains when the imagery of the material world is allowed to melt into the periphery for a time...
and then, perhaps,
to disappear completely.
If only just for Now.*

*This extraordinary feeling,
which is unquestionable,
yet you would not know how to begin to explain... is All That Is.*

*This is who you truly Are.
This feeling of wholeness.
This indescribable sense of Presence.
This Isness.
This Oneness.*

*Let the Oneness... that we have birthed
into the medium of physical perception... linger now ...for just a moment.*

*Let it shimmer!
Silently, breathing in its own delight... emerging within the inner recesses of our own sacred Self.
And marveling that we have brought the magical sense of This
into the Here and Now
of our worldly lives.*

*Let us give our Self permission... to simply Taste it.
To savor it.
To experience it.
To know it.*

*Deeply.
As we would know the intimacy of a Lover.*

*The moment is here for the Tasting.
It is not here to be clutched at,
or captured ...or caged.
You can not imprison a moment of sacred Union with Oneness.
You can only Be in this moment Now.*

*And that sense of Now can be created...
and re-created ...eternally.
Simply by surrendering
all resistance to it.*

*And in the same breath,
by focusing your intension,
and focusing your attention ...
focusing it with the precision of a laser... on your unquestioning knowing that this connectedness with your own sacred Essence is right ...Here.*

*Right Here.
Always.
Waiting for you to affirm it.
With your presence.*

*You have brought Eternity
into the moment-to-moment Nowness
of physical perception.*

*You have breathed Life Eternal into the illusory world
you call your “home.”*

*You have gone
on a timeless Journey... in the space of a moment.*

*And in the space of another moment ...or two...
you will release this timeless embrace and return to that material sense of “home”.*

*But this “Home” will never have left you.
Even if we never venture into the depths of this embrace... in this way ...again.*

For this “Home”... the “Home” you have touched-on in this fleeting moment of Divine Union... is one you carry within you.

*It is not out there in the physical world, intertwined with your material world obligations... and the trappings of identity with which you seek to define yourself and set yourself apart from all else
that competes for your attention.*

*This “Home”
goes along for the ride.*

*You have chosen
a physical incarnation,*

*through which to express...
and through which to affirm... who you Are*

*Know that you are free to take this "Home"
out into the world.
Any time you choose to.*

*In the midst of a maelstrom.
In moments
when you may be convinced
the world has gone mad,
this "Home"
is right Here.*

*Here
in the very center of the cyclone.
Where none of that illusory discord can touch you.*

*Right here,
in the sacred inner core
of your Eternal Being.*

No further away than your next breath.

*In those moments,
when the circumstances of life vie to distract you from this focus...
is the time to remember.*

*In those moments
when the trials of life and living challenge you... and try your endurance...
is the time to remember.*

*To remember the authenticity of
This.*

*And in that remembrance... in that shift of the focus of your attention... from the details of the illusion to the sanctity of your true Home... is the doorway
that takes you there!*

*Home to this moment
of Oneness.*

*Home to the Love
that been there...
waiting for you...
all along.*

*We will always be here for you.
Whether you choose to re-visit this moment ...or not.*

*Oneness does not go away.
Even in the darkest moments of life...
the moments when you feel most alone.
Oneness never goes away.*

*We are right Here.
As we have been for all Eternity.
Right Here.
Loving you.
Holding this space for you.
And waiting ...*

Global Awakening - A Vision Statement from 1997

Global awakening means individuals becoming aware of and embracing their true nature and destiny as embodied spiritual Beings. This truth goes beyond the limitations of historical beliefs concerning self, time, space, and matter. This realization concerns remembering who and what we are beyond the ordinary considerations of self as well as activating new dimensions of Being never before realized. The vastness of this destiny is such that it can only be known as it creates itself.

Global awakening acknowledges the approaching end of humankind's felt separation from Spirit and Source. Increasing numbers of people throughout the world are experiencing higher levels of consciousness in ways without precedent. This awareness, which goes beyond all the religions and doctrines of history, is of the universal Divinity within all and is part of All that Is. It is a state of full consciousness.

Earth-based experience has served as an intense practice of both separation and longing for Oneness. This is now being resolved and integrated into a new experience of both Unity and Diversity. Unity refers to Oneness of all of creation, diversity refers to the uniqueness contributed by each of us. As more people feel their connection with each other and with all of Creation, we see this awakening unfold.

Like a seed that has found a nourishing environment, a new type of human being is emerging, connected by universal love and spiritual awareness. New potentials are being activated within humankind. As in the birth of any new species, our very cellular material is changing to accommodate new energy patterns or inner Light. The cells of our matter are encoded with unlimited potential.

A marriage between heaven and earth, between spirit and matter, is giving birth to something new and wonderful. It means new possibilities for human existence, a new vibration for Earth, and new possibilities for all of Creation. Creation is re-creating Itself.
